

Abstract of the Disclosure

The present invention relates to a variable region of the monoclonal antibody against the S-surface antigen of hepatitis B virus and a gene encoding the same, a recombinant vector containing the said gene, and a transformant obtained from the said recombinant vector.